

Kasparov Victim of Public Egging!!

Posted by eric on Thursday, June 30 @ 13:30:14 CDT

Word to the wise to all bay area chess players...politics can be dirty!

As most know Kasparov has retired from chess to focus on Russian politics. He was recently slapped over the head with a chess board in a terrorist like attack. Yesterday he was pelted with eggs and ketchup in another senseless attack! !

Here is the story according to Moscow News:

Kasparov thought life would be easier after retiring from chess!

Eggs covered in ketchup were thrown at chess legend, leader of Committee-2008 and the recently formed United Civil Front, Garry Kasparov during a meeting with Beslan residents, Echo Moskv radio station reported. Kasparov believes the incident was planned by the authorities and representatives of the special services.

“I have been accompanied by two FSB (Federal Security Service) cars all the time. Even when I went to look at the dreadful scene of the destroyed school with the Mothers of Beslan Committee, I was followed by two FSB men carrying cameras so they would be ready to record any action that the authorities might interpret as suspicious activity,” Kasparov told the radio.

“In the square, where the cultural centre is, people started to gather and it was clear that instructions were being given by a man in camouflage gear, wearing colonel’s stripes, and a man who was by all appearances a local bandit leader, who arrived in a jeep with no number plates. It was very revealing that the police, who were already there, acted as though everything was as it should be.”

In the former chess champion’s opinion, it was clear that some act of provocation had been prepared. “Two men started to hassle me, demanding I go away without causing any trouble. But they were sent away by the Mothers of Beslan. After this, an impromptu meeting took place, which was interrupted when these people, who had taken up positions that made it easier to aim at us, started throwing eggs and ketchup,” he said.

Earlier this year Kasparov was also hit over the head with a chessboard. The politically motivated attack was carried out by a young man, who said: “I admired you as chess player, but you gave that up for politics.”

Kasparov’s supporters blamed the incident on pro-Kremlin youths from the Nashi (Ours) movement.